TWO MONTHS OF TRAFFIC MISERY

Resurfacing work taking place on major roads

By Daniel O'Brien

news.enfield@nlhnews.co.uk

MOTORISTS, residents and businesses in Muswell Hill have been warned to expect nearly two months of disruption as most of Colney Hatch Lane and part of Muswell Hill Broadway are closed for resurfacing.

The two major roads near the border of Haringey and Barnet will be closed from Monday this week, while vital improvements are carried out.

Haringey Council said the works are particularly essential in Colney Hatch Lane, which acts as a major route between Haringey and the North Circular as the road is in a bad state of repair made worse by heavy rainfall.

The works, which are expected to be completed by November 7, could not be started over the summer due to the resurfacing of nearby Alexandra Park Road, which has only just been completed.

The council was also required to give bus operators eight weeks so they could plan alternative routes around the roads.

Stuart McNamara, cabinet member for environment, said: "We're pleased to be able to get going on these essential works, which will allow us to make significant repairs to Colney Hatch Lane and to resurface Muswell Hill Broadway."

"Together with the resurfacing we've just completed in Alexandra Park Road, this work will improve conditions for residents, traders and motorists."

He continued: "We recognise that the works will cause disruption for residents and businesses, which is why we will be taking steps to keep the inconvenience to a minimum, including restricting hours of noisy work and installing clear diversion signs on affected routes, as well as writing to everyone affected."

Warning: A sign spelling out details of the roadworks in Muswell Hill

For more information on the work, including a list of affected bus routes, visit www.haringey.gov.uk/muswell-hill-road-closures, or call 020 8489 1335.

Officers were called following reports of a man breaking into the flat and a woman being threatened with a knife.

Some 40 minutes after police arrived, Mr Joseph was shot several times.

He was treated by paramedics from the London Ambulance Service and died on his way to hospital.

Island challenge for cancer charity

THREE women from Haringey have raised nearly £3,000 for charity after taking part in the 65-mile Isle of Wight "ultramarathon".

Erin Davey, 35, Rachel Newstead, 28, and Helen Pemberton, 34, all of whom are members of British Military Fitness, an outdoors exercise group, completed the challenge in 18 hours, 14 minutes and 30 seconds.

The women, who have been training together for five years, underwent intensive preparation, running long distances every week, and have raised a total of £2,864 so far for Macmillan Cancer Support, a charity close to the hearts of all three.

Helen said that another marathon might be on the cards later this year. Speaking of their achievement, she said: "We are really proud to have completed this challenge. Everyone we met along the way was incredibly supportive and friendly."

The event started in Cowes and consisted of running and walking a path around the coast, taking participants past the island's set of white chalk cliffs, the Needles, and through scenic coastal areas.

MP voices worries on GP surgery closures

By Koos Couvée

koos.couvee@nlhnews.co.uk

EDMONTON MP Andy Love has raised concerns over figures showing that 12 GP practices in the borough have closed in the past three years, while only one new surgery has opened.

The closures came to light after he tabled a series of parliamentary questions which also revealed that the average GP practice list size in the borough had increased from 4,775 patients in 2009 to 5,798 last year.

Last month an annual report by NHS England found that almost 15 per cent of people in Enfield who tried to book a GP appointment over the past year had had to wait a week or more, amounting to 46,835 patients who faced what Mr Love described as "an unacceptable delay".

"With GP surgeries closing, practice list sizes increasing and appointment waits growing, it is clear that the government's cuts to our health service have resulted in reduced provision in Enfield," said Mr Love.

"We need investment in new GP practices locally to reverse the closures of recent years and we need the government to reinstate the guarantee to see a doctor within 48 hours. Without that we risk putting people's health at risk."

Mr Love is also in favour of ensuring a GP appointment on the same day for those who need one and has added his weight to the Save Our Surgeries campaign, which seeks to increase support for surgeries in deprived areas.

NHS England said it could not comment on GP closures before it formally came into existence in April 2013.

However, a spokeswoman added: "Since April 2013 three GP practices in Enfield have given their notice to resign.

Following engagement with patients and assessment of local capacity, it was decided in each case that the patient lists would be dispersed.

"The average patient list size in Enfield continues to be below the national average."

A surgery at the new Ordinance Unity Centre, in Ordinance Road, Enfield Lock, will open its door to patients next month.

This summer Enfield North MP Nick de Bois and Enfield Southgate MP David Burrows proposed new powers for GPs wanting to open their own practices based on the free school model.

Private firms queue up to learn about £85million care contract

A LARGE number of private health firms and NHS bodies are interested in bidding for a new £85million contract that health commissioners will put out to tender next month.

The news came after Enfield Clinical Commissioning Group hosted a "market testing information event" to inform providers about the ins and outs of a five-year contract for musculoskeletal services in Enfield, including orthopaedics, rheumatology, pain management and physiotherapy.

Thursday's briefing was attended by representatives from more than a dozen private health firms, including BUPA, Care UK, Circle, BMI Healthcare and the Highgate Private Hospital.

Eight London-based NHS trusts also attended the event.

The North Middlesex University Hospital NHS Trust, in Sterling Way, Edmonton, the Hampstead-based Royal Free London NHS Foundation Trust and the Whittington NHS Trust, in Archway, were all represented, as well as Barnet, Enfield and Haringey Mental Health Trust, which currently provides a small part of the service.

Under the coalition government's NHS shake-up, health commissioners are required to put virtually all services out through competitive markets.

Previously, health campaigners have expressed fears about the impact on NHS hospitals and the mental health trust should the contract be awarded to a private firm.

Commissioners say that they aim to sign a deal with a "lead provider" to avoid past duplication of services and confusing access for patients.

A CCG spokeswoman added: "We are planning to improve musculoskeletal services by ensuring services work better together and support patients to achieve the health outcomes that are important to them."

MP's 'night out' intends to help homeless people

Burrowes sleeps outdoors in charity fundraiser

By Ozel Rowland

newsdesk@nlnews.co.uk

AN MP braved the elements overnight to show solidarity with homeless people who are forced to sleep rough.

David Burrowes, MP for Enfield Southgate, spent last Friday night with nothing but a sleeping bag to protect him from the autumn chill on the lawn in front of Enfield Town Library, in Church Street, Enfield.

He joined Southgate Green Conservative councillor Alessandro Georgiou and 80 others, all of whom were taking part in the sponsored Sleep Out to raise money for homelessness charity All People, All Places.

Money generated from the event will go towards setting up an Enfield night shelter to protect homeless people from the winter weather.

According to Enfield Council's review of homelessness, the borough has no emergency shelter and rough sleepers are often directed into neighbouring areas.

Mr Burrowes said he was delighted to be taking part in the event.

"The main issue is there's a need and we need to find ways to provide both emergency shelter and, obviously, more affordable accommodation for the wider housing challenge for London and for Enfield," he said.

He added: "What we're doing tonight can't be compared with a night sleeping rough or a night in desperate need of shelter, something we all take for granted, and certainly over the winter months.

"This isn't going to solve the housing problem overnight, but this will at least address the immediate needs of people who urgently need shelter."

Mr Burrowes denied that it was hypocritical of a Conservative MP to raise money for a homelessness charity when it was the coalition who axed the spare room subsidy – a policy often referred to as the bedroom tax.

He insisted: "It's very hard to make a direct correlation between that type of issue."

"I think the reality is, is that there are too many people who do not have adequate housing and who are living in crowded accommodation and that's one challenge."

"Then you've got the issue that there are people living in oversized accommodation and there are people waiting on lists for a long time, people in temporary accommodation who are desperate for accommodation, and we have to find different ways to deal with that."

To pledge support for the MP's efforts, log on to www.allpeopleallplaces.org to donate.

The All People, All Places charity currently operates in Haringey and provides an annual winter shelter throughout the months of December to March.

The scheme is expected to get going in Enfield later this year.

Remembering champion for disabled

ROB BOURNE

Memories: Anne-Marie Pearce, who read a poem in tribute to Pam Adams, inset

THE funeral of former councillor and social services champion Pam Adams was held last week.

Ms Adams, a Conservative, served on Enfield Council for 20 years, during which time she dedicated herself to improving social services, care for the elderly and services for visually impaired people. She was 85.

The funeral at Enfield Crematorium, in Great Cambridge Road, Enfield, on Thursday was attended by more than 50 people, including Enfield mayor Ali Bakir, current and former councillors, Enfield North MP Nick de Bois and Enfield Southgate MP David Burrowes.

Mike Rye, former leader of Enfield Council's Conservative group, delivered a eulogy.

Ms Adams was first elected in the Southgate Green ward in 1990 and later was elected in Turkey Street, a seat she held until 2010.

She also served as deputy mayor and on various committees, and took great pride in chairing the council's social services scrutiny panel.

Ms Adams was also made a Freeman of the Borough of Enfield.

After the funeral, a reception was held at the Ruth Winston Centre, in Green Lanes, Palmers Green, a community centre for over-50s, of which Ms Adams was a trustee until last year.

Chris Rash, chairman of the centre's board of trustees, said: "She cared deeply for the disabled, the elderly and partially sighted."

Ms Adams also served as president of Enfield Vision, a charity for visually impaired people.

Cockfosters ward councillor Anne-Marie Pearce, who read out a poem at the funeral, said of Ms Adams: "If she got something in her head, she would fight tooth and nail to make it happen."

"She was very dedicated and made life more positive for blind people."

"Always wearing high heels and smoking lots, she was quite a character. She did things her own way."

Heater linked to flat fire tragedy

Woman and granddaughter died accidentally

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

A GRANDMOTHER and her four-year-old granddaughter died in a flat fire after clothes were left too close to a gas heater, a coroner's court heard last week.

Collene Springer, 50, of Solomon Avenue, Edmonton, and Tamiyah Rose Sapphire Springer, who was with her that afternoon, died after the blaze tore through the ground-floor flat on December 19 last year.

They had been unable to escape after a gas heater sparked a fire in the bedroom and were found by firefighters unconscious in the hallway.

Tamiyah died at the scene of smoke inhalation and her wheelchair-bound grandmother, who had multiple sclerosis, died four days later at the Royal London Hospital, in Whitechapel, east London, due to multiple organ failure and carbon monoxide poisoning.

Andrew Walker, assistant coroner at North London Coroner's Court, in Wood Street, High Barnet, ruled that their deaths were an "accident".

Neil Crossfield, watch manager from London Fire Brigade's investigation team, told the inquest on Wednesday that they had been called at 5.14pm by a neighbour who had heard a "series of loud bangs" from the flat below.

Referring to a statement the watch manager had provided, Mr Walker said: "The neighbour went to the ground floor and found the letter box was hot to the touch and there was smoke coming out from around the door."

Mr Crossfield added that the fire brigade arrived on the scene at 5.23pm, but their initial attempts to get into the flat were thwarted as the girl "had collapsed behind the door".

Firefighters had to push her a bit further back into the flat before they were able to gain access and bring her out.

Collene Springer was found sitting in a wheelchair in the hallway, slumped to one side.

Explaining what had caused the fire, the watch manager told the coroner that it was a gas heater placed close to clothing at the end of the bed.

Asked how close the heater was to flammable items, Mr Crossfield replied: "The distance was half a metre. Bedding materials would have been hanging over the edge of the bed." The recommended distance between a portable gas heater and any items was one metre, he said.

Giving evidence about the installation of the gas heater, Detective Inspector Hayley Guest said that CCTV had not been working on the day of the fire and police had not been able to determine who had delivered and set up the heater.

"From the information we received, she [Collene] would not have been able to set it up herself," added DI Guest.

When asked if she could have moved the gas cylinder used to power the heater, she said: "It would have been fairly difficult for her."

Mr Walker concluded: "I am satisfied that the fire in this case did start as a consequence of items of clothing that were in front of a portable gas heater. It seems to me that the deaths were the result of an accident."

Dogs ruining play as they are trained to fight

Security call: Nick Dines says that more needs to be done than installing CCTV to protect the play park

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

THUGS who run dog fights are being blamed for ruining a children's play park in the heart of a leafy estate.

Council chiefs have revealed that the park, in Forty Hall estate, Forty Hill, Enfield, has been destroyed by, it is believed, dogs being made to hang on to equipment to strengthen their jaws ahead of fights.

The playground was finished last month and the council has already had to replace equipment and clean up the site three times.

Now, in a bid to clamp down on the "wanton vandalism", the council is prepared to fork out for new CCTV cameras to catch the thugs in the act.

Slamming those who sneak into the park after dark, the cabinet member for environment, Chris Bond, said that to train fighting dogs in a children's playground showed "quite remarkable levels of idiocy and selfishness".

"There have been too many reports in the media of young children being seriously injured by dogs in recent years, so to train a fighting dog in a playground and condition it to behave violently around play equipment which is used by toddlers is one of the most despicable things I've heard in a long time," he said.

He branded the vandals a "menace to society", adding that those responsible should be "ashamed of themselves".

"This wanton vandalism is completely unacceptable and it is costing us a fortune to repeatedly replace the equipment which is being damaged," he said.

The council is appealing to residents who have information on what is happening to call the police on 101.

However, Chase ward councillor Nick Dines, whose patch includes the Forty Hall estate, said that more needed to be done than installing cameras.

"There is only so much CCTV can pick up in the pitch black of an area that has no street lighting or light of any kind," he said.

"A resident who lives close to the gates of the estate told me that at night they are open and, anyone who wants to go in, can. Maybe the council should look at securing the gates better as well as investing in expensive CCTV equipment."

Mr Dines added that this type of vandalism was happening across the borough and the council should try to root it out altogether.

"This has proved to be a very popular playground with families and kids," he said. "It should not be ruined by vandalism."

Seven arrested in crackdown

SEVEN people have been arrested as part of a widespread swoop last week on crimes including robbery, burglary, handling stolen goods and drugs and gun offences.

Plain-clothes and uniformed police officers from Enfield took part in the combined operation on Thursday, along with colleagues from eight other London boroughs. Seven people were arrested in Enfield on suspicion of burglary, handling stolen goods and dangerous driving.

In total, 41 people were arrested, 513 cars were stopped, 33 cars were seized and 14 fixed penalty notices were dished out.

Parents fight fines for school parking

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

A CAMPAIGN group lobbying for more local school places has questioned a bid to clamp down on parents parking outside schools.

Enfield Council launched a drive last week to stop parents lingering outside schools and parking on yellow zig-zags while dropping off children.

Chris Bond, the council's lead on community safety, who is spearheading the implementation of doling out parking fines to those who violate the regulations, said: "The safety of our children should be a priority for everyone. We have already put in place 20mph zones around schools to make things safer and to encourage more children to walk to school.

"Most parents who drive their children to school park responsibly. However, a small minority insist on stopping as close as possible to the school gates, putting other children at risk."

He said that a concerted effort was being made to let parents know that if they don't drop and dash they could face parking fines of up to £110.

However, chairwoman of South West Enfield Action Team, Gonul Daniels, said that rather than punishing parents who drive children to schools far from their homes, and often wait with them in the car until school gates open, the council should focus on getting children into schools close to their homes so they can walk there with their parents.

"What you often find is that parents have to go to their child's primary school quite a long time in advance so they can find a parking space," she said. "If parents could walk with their children to school, this would not be an issue. It would make more sense to focus on making sure children can go to good local schools."

29 per cent drop in unemployment

By Koos Couvée

koos.couvee@nlhnews.co.uk

NEW figures revealing a sharp drop in the number of unemployed people in the borough have been welcomed by politicians from across the party divide.

Statistics published last week show that the number of people out of work and claiming job-seeker's allowance in Enfield has declined from 8,770 in August 2013 to 6,237 last month – a 29 per cent drop.

Neighbouring Barnet and Haringey reported a 27 per cent and 26 per cent decline in JSA claims respectively.

Youth unemployment in Enfield fell by 33 per cent, while the number of residents who have been claiming the benefit for longer than a year dropped by 33.5 per cent, from 2,885 to 1,945.

Nationally, the number of claimants fell by 37,200 to 966,500 in August, the first time it has been below a million since September 2008 at the start of the global financial crisis.

Commenting on the figures, Enfield North MP Nick de Bois said: "I am pleased to see a sustainable decline in unemployment. There's still a lot to do, but there are now more people in work than before the last general election."

Since 2010, however, wages have stalled while living costs have increased.

A study by the New Policy Institute last year found that 23 per cent of Enfield residents in work receive less than the London living wage of £8.80. It also found that 26 per cent of jobs in the borough are low-paid.

Mr de Bois added: "While some are in low-paid work they were previously unemployed for a considerable amount of time and what is important is that they now are in work.

"I am supporter of the living wage and I would like to see a lot of employers moving towards that."

Alan Sitkin, Enfield Council's cabinet member for economic development, welcomed the fall in unemployment, but described the growth in the economy as "unsustainable".

He said: "Unemployment is always cyclical and we are now in an upward turn. The government does not have an economic plan, it has only a fiscal plan.

"I'm concerned about the sustainability of many of these jobs long-term. Productivity nationally is actually going down. We need manufacturing jobs in order to rebalance the economy.

"The council is continuing to work in partnership with different organisations to bring down unemployment and focus on the quality of jobs."

Paul
EverittArtistic director,
Millfield Arts Centre

ANYONE who works in it will tell you that the theatre can be a tough old business. The show must go on, no matter what.

This was brought to mind starkly last week when I learned of the death of the country music legend George Hamilton IV.

He was due to appear at Enfield Council's Millfield Theatre this season in the Patsy Cline Anniversary Tour on October 22.

He was a fit and healthy 77-year-old, who was energetically fulfilling his role as one of the world's leading country music ambassadors when he was struck down by a fatal heart attack.

George Hamilton IV was a close friend of Patsy Cline and so his narration of the show marking 50 years since her death (aged just 30 in a plane crash) would have been a wonderful and moving tribute. However, now on October 22 at the Millfield Theatre we will be mourning the passing of two legendary artists.

As Ethel Merman so famously sang in the 1950s' film of the same name, There's No Business Like Show Business.

The cast and company will pick themselves up and – as is the tradition in the theatre – the show will go on.

His son, George Hamilton V, a respected international country artist in his own right, will replace and pay tribute to his father.

And while we get on with the show our hearts will be heavy with the sad loss of one of our brightest musical stars.

Truth of NHS reform is more taxing

I READ with interest the letters of Kate Wilkinson and Ivy Beard and the article by Ruth McKee ("Save NHS" is rallying cry of marchers from north", Advertiser, September 10).

Most of the so-called NHS privatisation involves a transfer of staff and the service to an outside organisation for the sole reason of saving money and therefore providing a more cost-effective service.

The cost-saving is achieved by the trust/hospital being able to reclaim VAT on the cost of the service. Perhaps, greater effort could be put into an argument for exempting the NHS from paying VAT for clinical services.

What is also clear is that the NHS cannot just keep spending more and more each year, also the public cannot continue to expect it to keep everyone alive forever.

I remember life without the NHS and am a supporter of the ethos of free care at the point of need. However, I do not expect it to continue treating me should I contract a terminal condition, only that it should ensure my life reaches its end in the most dignified and pain-free way possible.

Questions to answer about Mini-Holland

AN open letter to Chris Bond, cabinet member for environment and community Safety, regarding Cycle Enfield cabinet meeting, September 7.

As you will be aware, Green Lanes Business Association (GLBA) represents the interests of shopkeepers on Green Lanes, with a particular focus on Palmers Green. We have a good track record of working with Enfield Council.

However, I am concerned by some aspects of the report of Enfield Council's director of regeneration and environment. It sets out proposals for the governance arrangements around the Cycle Enfield programme, formerly known as "Mini Holland".

● Strong communities. Your report states: "The consultation process allows the representation and input of all interest groups." However, the diagram at appendix 1 only includes Enfield Business and Retailers' Association as a consultee. EBRA is funded by Enfield Council and therefore cannot be fully independent. Business groups in each of the three areas should be added to the constitution of each partnership board (including GLBA). We also invite you to include passenger groups.

● Health and safety implications. "There are no direct health and safety implications arising from this report." This is incorrect. Your governance arrangements currently exclude representatives of vulnerable user groups.

● Project governance. "A 'critical friend' will be invited to provide an external challenge to each of the partnership boards." Please describe the eligibility criteria and appointment process for this critical friend.

● Financial implications. Your report states "expenditure once approved by Transport for London will be fully funded by means of direct grant from TfL, hence no costs fall on the council". My understanding was that Enfield Council would partly fund the scheme. Please confirm the sources of funding and if any loans will be required.

● Growth and sustainability. "The Mini-Holland project will contribute to the growth agenda by regenerating the town centres that the main cycle routes pass through." Please describe how this will be achieved and how you have addressed the very real risk that shops in Palmers Green may close as a direct result of this scheme. Have you commissioned an independent, professional body to undertake a risk assessment of the economic impacts?

● Public health implications. "Increasing cycling levels in Enfield would significantly improve the health and well-being of Enfield residents, not only through increased physical activity and associated reductions in mortality and morbidity, but also through the reduction of crime, fear of crime and increasing residents' financial resilience." Please describe what assessment you have done on air quality impacts from increased traffic congestion resulting from the scheme. Please also explain how crime will be reduced and how the financial resilience of residents will be increased.

I must emphasise that GLBA is not anti-cycling. We welcome proposals that promote green travel and improve safety for vulnerable road users. But any decision-making must recognise that:

● Cyclists are a minority of road users.

● As currently formulated, the Cycle Enfield scheme could significantly increase traffic congestion and worsen air quality in Palmers Green.

The lack of parking will significantly reduce the ability of potential customers to visit shops, or for shops to take deliveries. This could devastate our town centre.

Alternative routes, such as those parallel to Green Lanes, have not been given adequate consideration.

Ward forums another nail in the coffin

COUNCILLOR George Savva ("Forums a chance to give your views", Advertiser, September 10) completely missed the point about residents' concerns about the abolition of area forums.

I can already contact my councillors by email, telephone or arrange a face-to-face meeting to discuss any problems, the new ward forums therefore offer no more than what was previously available.

Area forums, however, were the only place available where local residents and residents' groups could not only hold our councillors to scrutiny but also council officers, who also attended regularly. This is no longer available to us.

The ward forums are simply "dumbed-down" area forums and their creation is simply another nail in the coffin of local democracy and scrutiny of the council.

Memories of cricket aces

WITH reference to "Memories of West Indian cricket star" (Advertiser, September 10), my father, TAJ ("Tadge") Bennett, was for many years the secretary of Winchmore Hill Cricket Club.

It was through his friendship with Allan Rae that the West Indies touring team, led by Learie Constantine (later Sir), visited WHCC while in England for a Test series.

They came at least twice and the Middlesex first team (with Dennis Compton etc.) came every year. The crowds were enormous and, as far as I remember, the weather was always perfect.

After the matches I went around the ground collecting the discarded ice cream cartons. Such happy days!

New firm has role in community life

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

A BUSINESSWOMAN says she is determined to give community events across the borough a new lease of life.

Daniela Gavriel, 31, from Enfield Town, has launched a new company, Stardust, to help businesses connect with residents.

After pulling off a string of charity fundraisers, Daniela wants to branch out into corporate and business events.

"It has been great fundraising for charities and I think my experience in organising these events means I can take that into a business environment," she told the Advertiser.

The inspiration for the business came after her fledgling company raised £800 for the Nightingale Centre, in Lancaster Road, Enfield; North London Hospice, in Barrowell Green, Winchmore Hill; and Woodcroft Wildspace, in Winchmore Hill.

The company has also raised £1,300 for the Butterfly AVM charity with an event aimed at children and families in The Orange Tree pub in Totteridge Village.

There are many items that are not so obviously valuable and this is where the professional valuer's expertise comes in.

There are times when the exposure of an auction is beneficial – let our experts help you to decide, but many items, where a known or intrinsic value can be simply assessed such as Gold, are just not suited for sale at auction.

Plan to catch A10 racers on camera

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

RACERS who speed along one of the borough's infamous "drag race" circuits could be forced to brake sharply, according to the Mayor of London.

Boris Johnson has announced that he is rolling out a trial of average-speed cameras on speed trap roads across the capital and has said that, if these go as planned, the notorious A10 in Enfield could be next.

According to the Mayor of London's office, Enfield North MP Nick de Bois has been in touch with Mr Johnson to alert him to the issue of speeding on the A10 – that runs through the borough from the M25 to the North Circular Road.

Mr Johnson said: "I have met with Nick de Bois recently and he and local councillors have been telling me that speeding cars along the A10 are causing misery for local residents on a Sunday evening.

"In response, I have asked Transport for London and the Met Police to fund regular enforcement operations along the A10. I am very concerned that residents are suffering from this type of behaviour and want to send a clear message that speeding and racing is not welcome in Enfield."

Detailing action that his office is taking throughout the capital, Mr Johnson told the London Assembly: "I have approved a trial for four sets of average-speed cameras in

Captured on camera: Traffic police launched a campaign last year

London, on the A40, the A316, the A20 and on the western half of the A406.

"Further locations for average-speed cameras will be determined by the results of this trial and the A10 will be considered as part of this process."

Welcoming the news that Mr Johnson might be on the verge of ordering TfL to install the cameras, Mr de Bois said: "These average-speed cameras are an important device to help deal with these night-time drag racers on a permanent basis.

"I am grateful for the mayor's support, but we must keep the campaign going until we are sure this problem is dealt with once and for all."

Temple ‘should be in different place’

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

A COUNCIL chief won the approval of scores of residents last week when he said he felt a controversial temple “was in the wrong place”.

Andrew Stafford, cabinet member for finance and ward councillor for Edmonton Green, told the meeting of the Edmonton Green, Haselbury and Upper Edmonton ward forum at Community House, in Fore Street, on Thursday that the Tamil Hindu temple, in Church Lane, Edmonton, would be better situated in a non-residential location. He told the heated meeting, at which residents had gathered to express anger at the ongoing building works on the temple site: “Everyone is acutely aware that the Tamil temple is in the wrong place.”

His comments were met with applause and agreement from residents.

“We have been looking to move the temple somewhere else in the borough and the obvious place to do that would be to redesignate the industrial land in Montagu Road to allow the temple to be built there,” said Mr Stafford. He told the meeting that this would mean that the trustees of the temple would have ample space for storage, parking and access – issues which are creating tensions in Church Lane between the trustees and residents.

However, the council boss was approached by temple trustees immediately after the meeting and told that they were locked into a lease on the Church Lane premises for at least 12 years.

Mr Stafford then made a point of altering his statements.

Speaking to the Advertiser after the meeting, he said: “I made those statements before I knew that the temple trustees were locked into a 12-year lease. The situation is not ideal but, with this lease, our options are limited.”

Church Lane resident Colette Cox told the Advertiser that she agreed wholeheartedly with the comments Mr Stafford made during the meeting.

“The council have handled this situation badly,” she said. “Andrew Stafford is right, this is not the right location.”

Women’s demand to stop commuters parking in street

RESIDENTS want an end to commuters using their road to park their cars all day while they are at work.

Lorraine Dunkley and Maria Sotiriou both live in Victoria Road, Edmonton.

They attended the meeting of Edmonton ward forum in Community House, Fore Street, in Edmonton, last Thursday hoping to raise the issue of introducing controlled parking in the street to deter drivers from leaving their cars before catching trains into central London.

However, the two were furious when the chairman of the meeting George Savva, a councillor for Haselbury ward, told them the issue was not on the agenda and would not be discussed.

The women walked out of the meeting, along with other residents from Victoria Road.

“I first wrote to the council about this in November 2012,” Lorraine told the Advertiser. “Commuters park in the street from 7am until 7.30 at night.”

When councillor for Edmonton Green Andrew Stafford saw the women walk out, he followed and suggested setting up a meeting between them, himself and parking officer Liam Mulrooney to discuss the possibility of introducing a controlled parking zone in the street.

“We’re not asking for much,” Maria said. “Even if we could just have few hours of controlled parking, that would help the problem.”

Conmen caught in kitchen refit rip-off

By Ozel Rowland

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

CONMEN who tried to rip off a family by carrying out shoddy work and then demanding payment in full were caught in the act by council officers.

The dodgy dealers persuaded a 59-year-old man from Palmers Green to agree to a £6,000 kitchen refit – but they carried out such sub-standard work that the victim did not want to fork out for the so-called luxury kitchen.

A light socket had been fitted above the sink and units were found to have been sourced from an off-the-shelf bargain line at a DIY store.

Initially, the rogue traders had convinced the man that despite these flaws he had to pay £1,500 costs – and he was in the process of handing over another £1,000 when Enfield Council's trading standards officers intervened.

It emerged that the contract that had been agreed was unenforceable as the traders had failed to provide the man with any paper work or a cancellation notice.

Chris Bond, cabinet member for environment, said that the council would not tolerate traders who try to "rip off" the borough's residents and pledged that the local authority would intervene to stop residents being conned in this way.

He added: "I'm delighted our trading standards officers were able to intervene in this case and prevent rogue traders from conning money out of a resident after carrying out poor quality and over-priced work on his property."

Help on patient waits

By Koos Couvée

koos.couvee@nlhnews.co.uk

HEALTH commissioners in neighbouring Barnet have been given extra support by NHS chiefs to clear the "huge" backlog of patients waiting for surgery at Chase Farm and Barnet hospitals.

The news comes as the Hampstead-based Royal Free London NHS Foundation Trust continues efforts to cut the number of patients on the elective surgery waiting list at the hospitals, in The Ridgeway, Enfield, and Wellhouse Lane, High Barnet, which it took over in July.

Last year the now-defunct Barnet and Chase Farm Hospitals NHS Trust had stopped reporting the numbers of patients waiting longer than 18 weeks for treatment to NHS England because of a major data quality problem.

A Barnet Clinical Commissioning Group report in April estimated at least 180 patients had been waiting for more than a year for surgery, while 2,200 had waited longer than 18 weeks. It also said that a major data quality recovery exercise had begun, but it could be late next year before the backlog is cleared.

Now the Health Service Journal has reported that Barnet CCG has been given support, underpinned by "legal directions", by NHS England to assist the Royal Free in tackling the problem.

NHS standards dictate that 90 per cent of admitted and 95 per cent of non-admitted patients should start consultant-led treatment within 18 weeks.

Debbie Frost, chairwoman of Barnet CCG, said: "NHS England wanted to find a way to work with the CCG to ensure that there is a robust process in both the short and long term to get referral-to-treatment times back on track.

"The directions are a way of ensuring additional targeted support on managing the huge referral-to-treatment times issue only. We are working more closely with NHS England to address the underlying problems and ensure that Chase Farm and Barnet have sustainable plans in place to meet demands for services in the future."

The Royal Free said it could still take "some months" to establish which patients have been waiting for longer than 18 weeks.

£50million deal sealed for Ponders End regeneration

By Koos Couvée

koos.couvee@nlhnews.co.uk

COUNCIL chiefs have signed a £50million contract with a housing developer for the building of 248 new homes and retail space in Ponders End.

Enfield Council has come to an agreement with construction firm Lovell over the Electric Quarter Scheme in High Street, which, it says, will "transform" the area.

The scheme is named in honour of Joseph Swan, the inventor of the electric light bulb, whose manufacturing company the Edison & Swan United Electric Light Company, known commonly as Ediswan, had a factory in Ponders End. It will see 160 homes built for sale and 88 for affordable rent, along with the creation of just over 1,000 square metres of non-residential space for small businesses and a new home for Ponders End Library.

Alan Sitkin, cabinet member for economic development, said the signing of the agreement marked an "important step forward" towards the regeneration of the area.

"This scheme will help to provide work and training for local people and will make Ponders End an even more attractive local shopping centre," he said.

"We also need the private sector to build more homes across Enfield, so it is really encouraging to see that we are moving towards the provision of an appropriate mix of more new homes."

The council believes the scheme will deliver a "major boost" for the borough's economy.

Lovell will provide up to 10 construction apprenticeships for Enfield youngsters, as well as opportunities for work experience, and aims to draw at least a third of its construction workers from the borough.

Peter Taylor, the firm's regional director, said: "It is exciting to bring our expertise in delivering this project for Ponders End. The scheme will make an important contribution to the ongoing regeneration of the area."

"As part of our commitment to leaving a life-changing legacy of benefits in the communities

Building for the future: Lovell regeneration manager Stephen Norton, Paul Walker, Enfield Council's assistant director for regeneration and planning, Lovell regional director Peter Taylor and Alan Sitkin, the council's cabinet member for economic development where we work, the physical regeneration of the neighbourhood will be accompanied by the creation of significant job and training opportunities."

Construction work on the scheme is expected to start next year, subject to the completion of the full planning and public consultation process.

Youngsters share in architecture award

A YOUTH club partly designed by the teenagers who use it has won an architecture award.

The Unity Hub at Craig Park, Edmonton, picked up a civic and community prize from the Architects' Journal at a ceremony in central London last Wednesday.

The judges awarded the prize based on the way the architects of the new youth centre, Curl la Tourelle, incorporated the old building into a newer, modernised version.

The money for the lavish revamp came from a £3.5million grant from central government in 2009.

The centre, complete with media suite, recording studio, climbing cave, gym and dance studio, re-opened its doors last year following the multi-million-pound facelift.

Andrew Lloyd, one of the architects from the company who designed the centre, said that the project had been "a great opportunity" to work with the ideas of the young people.

He added: "It is a light, airy building, which responds to changes in the light with a welcoming colourful glow attracting young people."

Rohini Simbodayal, Enfield Council's cabinet member for culture and youth, said the award was a credit to the young people involved in the project.

"This award, made by the Architects' Journal, is particularly pleasing since this is the leading national architectural magazine," he said.

"It is a much coveted seal of approval and really encouraging as the young people associated with the centre played a major role in the development of the design."

Shop has big relaunch

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

A LANDMARK department store has brought a taste of the West End to the borough with a raft of new designers and brands.

Pearsons, in Church Street, Enfield Town, celebrated its new look on Saturday. A new escalator will whisk shoppers to the first floor where they can browse through items before heading to a new Italian cafe.

Speaking to the Advertiser, Ian Turner, marketing manager for Morleys Stores, who own Pearsons, said customers and staff were treated to something of a party.

"There was candyfloss and popcorn for customers and a steel band played for us all."

He also said it was "quite a symbolic opening" because 50 years ago the owner of Morleys, Bernard Dreesmann, cut a ribbon on the escalator of its Brixton store when he was seven. Now his seven-year-old son, also called Bernard, cut a ribbon on the new escalator in Pearsons.

The new-look store also includes a restaurant and children's play area on the top floor.

Added Ian: "One of our customers came up to me and told me that they did not have to go into the West End anymore because we have everything here – that's as good an endorsement as anything."

Happy shoppers: Mother and daughter Claire and Anna Froment were among the visitors to the store on Saturday

With Right to Buy, you could now get a bigger discount towards buying the home you live in.

Have you been a council tenant for at least 5 years? If so, you could be eligible for a discount of up to £77,000, or £102,700 if you live in London. So is now the right time to think about buying your home?

To find out more about Right to Buy and whether you're eligible for a large discount, visit:

FOR COUNCIL AND HOUSING ASSOCIATION
TENANTS

Council and housing association tenants Are you up to date with Right to Buy?

RIGHT TO BUY is the scheme that helps eligible council and housing association tenants buy their home by offering a discount on the purchase price.

Since 2012 the discounts available have increased and the rates have recently risen again. The new top cash discounts are £77,000 in England, and £102,700 if you live in London. Each year the discount will increase at the rate of inflation.

Since 2012 the discounts available have increased and the rates have recently risen again. The new top cash discounts are £77,000 in England, and £102,700 if you live in London. Each year the discount will increase at the rate of inflation.

In addition, eligible tenants can now get up to 70% off the cost of their house – the same maximum percentage discount as for flats.

Since the scheme was refreshed in April 2012 more than 22,500 people in England have become homeowners through the Right to Buy scheme. Could this be the right time for you – or somebody you know – to join them?

Home ownership is not the right choice for everyone and potential owners need to be sure they can afford it. However home ownership brings many benefits - a sense of pride, freedom to make changes and an investment for the future.

All additional purchases through the Right to Buy scheme go straight into building new affordable housing for hardworking people locally.

Who qualifies for the Right to Buy?

Tenants are likely to be eligible to buy their current home if they can answer 'yes' to the following questions:

- Are you currently a council tenant, or were you living in your home when the council transferred it to another landlord (housing association)?
- Have you been a council or housing association tenant for 5 years or more?
- Can you confirm that you do not live in sheltered housing or other housing designed for elderly or disabled people?

In addition, tenants need to be free from legal problems with debt or outstanding possession orders, and their home isn't due to be demolished.

If you don't qualify at the moment, keep an eye on news about Right to Buy as the Government is hoping to make further changes to eligibility in 2015.

What to do next

Comic who'll make you think as well as laugh

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

A COMEDIAN will be turning the tables on audiences by provoking thoughts as well as laughs.

Stephen K Amos will be returning to the Millfield Theatre to perform his new touring show Welcome to my World in which he will pose some of life's big questions to his audiences.

Bored of being asked the same questions over and over again, he is hoping to stir up audiences with some of the issues rarely addressed by modern society.

Speaking ahead of his tour, he said: "Even in this day and age, we still don't like to talk about things like race and sexuality or how much money you earn, all those awkward dinner party conversation fillers.

"There's a certain weirdness that can spark up in those areas and that gives me a springboard to be awkward within the show and ask the audience the awkward, challenging questions."

However, he will not limit those awkward questions to the domestic sphere and, with world events spiralling into new conflicts and domestic politics dominated by talk of immigration and Europe, Amos will be getting political.

"Bearing in mind what's going on with Russia at the moment, where they're going into Ukraine and grabbing bits of a country that was once theirs, I wonder why the world is reacting the way it has. How would the world react if the indigenous people of Australia tried to claim what is theirs rightfully?" Stephen said, discussing what audiences can expect from the new show.

Audiences can be reassured, however, that the show will not be completely serious and that there will be just as many laughs as ever.

"Ultimately, my main focus is that they've got to laugh," added Stephen.

"The people who come to my shows are, generally speaking, the converted, so there's no point in me just telling them about race and politics and getting all this applause, that's just pointless. It's all about keeping it up and down, making a point but keeping the laughter flowing."

Stephen K Amos will be performing at the Millfield Arts Centre, in Church Street, Edmonton, on October 4.

Tickets are £17 and can be bought from http://www.enfield.gov.uk/millfield/homepage/18/whats\_on\_millfield\_theatre

Huge thanks to everyone involved on Friday for making our first event for 'In Sue's Name' such a great success. We are pleased to tell you we raised almost £15,000. Thanks to Ali Bakir, our Mayor of Enfield and David Burrowes MP for their attendance. For those that don't know us, we are raising funds for research into brain cancer and creating awareness of the disease and hopefully helping fund treatment into the disease that has claimed the life of our daughter Sue and many others. We are planning to raise further funds, and are looking for people to help us to organise events in aid of the charity and we would welcome any help and advice from local organisations who would like to help. ## MORE RECORD-BREAKING EXAM RESULTS FOR YEAR 11

Following on from last year's record-breaking performance, our Year 11 leavers have done even better and once again produced the best exam results recorded at Northumberland Park.

The proportion of students attaining A*-C grades in English & Maths has risen steeply once again and now stands at 57%, having been at 41% in 2012 and 51% in 2013.

Of particular note are the outstanding results achieved in English Language: 69% of the Y11 cohort gained A*-C grades, up 9% from 2013 and up 24% when compared to 2012.

Individually, there were many fine performances but the 'standout' student is undoubtedly Ali Aydemir who achieved no less than 7 A*'s and 5 As. He was closely followed Nazifa Uddin who gained 3 A*'s and 6 As. A further 19 students achieved 4 or more A or A* grades.

A number of our students have won scholarships to prestigious Independent Schools:

Bradfield College- MacondeCaba and Hasan Chowdhury. Beadles School- Chelsea Chu. King Edward's School- Ryan Pessoa.

Headteacher, Monica Duncan, commented: "The year-on-year rise in our results is testimony to the commitment and hard work of students and staff who have worked tirelessly to achieve these results.

I also want to acknowledge the outstanding support received from parents.

We wish all the year 11 students of 2013/14 every success in their future studies."

“Freedom to Flourish” opportunities at Palmers Green High School

From 3-year olds joining the Alice Nursery to Seniors excitedly making plans for Sixth Form, our girls are supported and challenged throughout their school careers.

Opportunities abound within this small school because our girls can access experiences normally reserved for ‘the chosen few’.

An atmosphere of calm excitement and purposeful engagement is apparent from early days in the Alice Nursery, where girls flourish as they discover the world around them through a variety of carefully planned activities linked to a weekly theme.

Lower School classes benefit hugely from the encouragement and expertise of their class teachers and teaching assistants. Favourable teaching group sizes, light and airy classrooms and access to senior school facilities all lead to an inspirational learning environment. This is enriched by specialist teaching in Art, Design & Technology, Drama, French, German,

Latin, Music, PE and Russian – frequently in half class groups.

In Senior School small class sizes (an average of only 10 at GCSE) along with a broad range of extra-curricular activities enriches the girls’ experience. New Year 7s enjoy a three-day residential PGL trip and friendships are formed quickly and easily.

Excellent teamwork helped our Year 10 pupils to win the 2014 London Schools Hydrogen Challenge, in a world record-breaking time. In 2014 GCSE candidates attainment at A*/A was 74%, placing them amongst the top performers in the country.

Ranked 1st in The Sunday Times league table for Small Schools for the last four years, parents can be confident that Palmers Green High School girls attain excellent results in relation to their abilities and aptitudes. Here every girl is known as an individual and encouraged to contribute fully in all areas of school life, where a plethora of opportunities ensures that our girls have freedom to flourish.

Decisions St Martha's School

Having been Headmaster of St Martha's for a year now I have had the opportunity to visit and speak with other Heads of many different types of schools. Parents are certainly fortunate to have such a choice of diverse schools in our area that it is a genuinely difficult choice when it comes to secondary education.

I have come to realise that there is never a quiet time in the life of the school. Over the summer, in addition to running our own summer school for international students, we refurbished our library, completely transformed our Science facilities and also given our Sixth Form Centre a new look. This has largely been needed as we have our largest every Sixth Form this year being made up of our own students from Year 11 but also pulling from other local schools, in fact, we are still adding to this number as I write this.

What has been particularly pleasing for me to witness at St Martha's is the ease with which these girls, from different schools have quickly become part of our community. Although most schools biggest intakes take place in Years 7, 9 and Lower 6th it has been wonderful to be able to offer places to girls in other years as well.

Throughout last year and this term we have had many girls join St Martha's in various year groups. Although they are all individuals in different situations what prompted the move was a desire for their daughter to be happy. I personally believe that too much emphasis is placed on league table position and the destination of leavers resulting in the incorrect selection of secondary school. I also believe that we are in danger of losing sight of what a genuine education should be for a student. Yes examinations are important, yes if you are able to study at university you should and ensure you get to the best but we must not lose sight of the individual student. What is right for them? What represents success for them? As Headmaster of a school that does well with examination results, and sends most of its students to Russell Group Universities, you might say that it is easy for me to say this? But the reason we get the results we do is because of the individual attention that is given to each and every student. We are not a hot house or exam factory. Yes it is important that our students secure the best possible academic results and have access to the real world beyond the school. Yes we must ensure they are independent learners and will be able to cope in the different environment of university and employment but as a parent reminded me recently, we have to get them there first!

Perhaps, having read this, you might like to consider St Martha's for your daughter? To see if St Martha's might be where your daughter belongs why not visit our website and view our recently produced video or better still come to our Whole School Open morning on Saturday 27th September or our Sixth Form Open Evening on Thursday 16th October.

Looks and performance

By Matt Joy

YOU don't have to be a car-ista to know about the Audi TT. Since the first generation appeared in 1999, it's been the choice of the fashion conscious – but it took until the second model in 2005 before the driving experience could match its looks.

Now the third generation has arrived and it promises to move the TT forward in a significant way. Like the old car, it uses a mix of aluminium and high-strength steels to keep the weight down, yet it's 50kg lighter than the old car. It also debuts what Audi terms the "virtual cockpit" – a large display screen where the instruments would normally be. Add to that a new exterior, interior and refreshed engines and there's plenty to take in.

You'd be forgiven for thinking that third generation TT is barely changed, but park one next to the old car and the differences become clearer. It's broader in the shoulder and more edgy than before, particularly at the front, where there are a mean, six-sided grille and vertical LEDs in the headlights to match the R15 Le Mans racer. The unique curved roof stays and hotter TTs models get a more distinctive nose. A job well done, then.

Move to the inside and the focus is clearly on those up front. The virtual cockpit means an uncluttered dashboard and there's plenty of clever thinking here. The air vents house the controls for the air con itself, while the instrument display is crystal clear and informative.

Front-seat passengers have good space for head and legs and the boot is 13 litres larger than before – but the back seats remain the domain of children, unless your adult friends are very short in stature.

There are three flavours to choose from – two-litre TFSI in 227bhp and 306bhp forms, plus the 181bhp two-litre TDI Ultra. The lower-output petrol is likely to be the most popular and strikes a good balance between performance and efficiency.

Wring it out and it will hit 62mph in six seconds flat, half a second quicker if you go for Quattro four-wheel-drive and the S tronic gearbox, yet it can also manage 39.2mpg combined. There's a pleasing gruffness to the exhaust note when you rev it out, yet it is quiet and refined when cruising.

With standard suspension, the TT fractionally prioritises comfort over ultimate handling, but for everyday use it's judged very well. It handles neatly, with strong grip and a sense of security, while doing a fine job of soaking up bumps.

All versions get the clever virtual cockpit as standard, the touchpad MMI control system to operate it, keyless go and the Audi Drive Select system. There are leather and Alcantara sports seats, 18-inch alloy wheels and LED daytime running lights as standard, too, but you need to pay extra to get sat-nav and fully automatic climate control.

If you loved the previous TTs, then this one will be right up your street. Fashion-conscious buyers will be happy to be seen stepping out of it, but now keener drivers can get excited about it, too. It's not the ultimate sports car, but it's sharp enough and sufficiently good fun to keep the majority of drivers very happy.

LACKLUSTRE SPURS SUFFER HOME LOSS

By Dominique Stafford

sport.enfield@nlhnews.co.uk

NEWLY appointed club captain Younes Kaboul admitted that Tottenham Hotspur had not been good enough after they slumped to a shock 1-0 defeat at home to West Bromwich Albion on Sunday.

Spurs had begun the match as heavy favourites against a side who were bottom of the Premier League table, but they offered little threat in attack and were undone by James Morrison's 74th-minute header.

"We're all disappointed, of course, after this poor defeat," said Kaboul, who was confirmed as Tottenham's skipper last week following the departure of Michael Dawson.

"I think we played with a slow tempo all of the game and we never looked dangerous, a threat for West Brom.

"They took their chance and they scored from a corner. It was not good enough from us. I am still questioning everything, what went wrong. We didn't create any chances.

"We were just inviting them to try to score. It was not good enough from us. But that's football and we have to go back to training with a better mentality."

But Kaboul is confident that Tottenham can respond to the defeat in positive fashion as they prepare to host Championship leaders Nottingham Forest in the Capital One Cup tonight, prior to Saturday's north London derby at Arsenal.

"It is a tough week," he added. "Every game is tough. The game on Wednesday is important for us, because we want to win something this season. Forest are a good side, they are doing well in the Championship and we have to bounce back straightaway."

Head coach Mauricio Pochettino was

Room for improvement: Younes Kaboul was disappointed with Tottenham's defeat on Sunday equally concerned with Sunday's display, feeling that they started too slowly and never recovered from this.

"The beginning was difficult," he said. "We played very slow at the start of the game. We played very, very slow and never won the second ball.

"We have energy, but it was difficult with the way that we play. We had a very bad day with the ball.

"We created some chances, but not too many. I think a fair result would have been a draw, but we made a mistake. In football, if you make a mistake you pay for it. But I am not happy with the performance."

Borough's winning streak comes to an end

HARINGEY BOROUGH'S stunning 21-match winning streak in the Essex Senior League finally came to an end on Saturday when they were beaten 1-0 at home by fellow high-fliers FC Romania.

Borough went into the match having won every league game they had played since the start of March, but they were always likely to face a tough task against a side who also boasted a 100 per cent record in the league.

The decisive moment came in the 21st minute when Sorin Buciu scored from close range to put FC Romania ahead.

The hosts dominated the second half and created a number of excellent chances, but were unable to take any of them as they ended up with nothing to show for their efforts.

Meanwhile, Borough eased to a 4-2 victory when they made the trip to Ilford on Wednesday last week.

Rakim Richards headed in Dan Aristidou's corner to give the visitors an early lead, but Chris Lockwood got Ilford back on level terms prior to the interval.

However, Borough took control of the contest in the second period and Darrell Cox put them back in front three minutes after the restart.

Aristidou then extended their advantage in spectacular fashion on 55 minutes, spotting the home keeper off his line and lofting the ball into the net from near halfway out wide on the right.

Aristidou scored again eight minutes later before Carl Mullins grabbed a consolation goal for Ilford with ten minutes remaining.

Haringey Borough, who are still top of the table three points above FC Romania having played two games more, take on tenants Greenhouse London on Saturday (3pm).

Assou-Ekotto hit by three-game ban

TOTTENHAM HOTSPUR defender Benoit Assou-Ekotto has been banned for three matches after being found guilty of improper conduct in relation to the Nicolas Anelka quenelle incident.

The Cameroon international was also ordered to pay a £50,000 fine by the Football Association last week following a comment he made on Twitter in the wake of the controversial incident late last year.

Anelka was handed a five-match suspension when he made the quenelle gesture – which is associated with anti-Semitism – after scoring for West Bromwich Albion at West Ham United in December, and Assou-Ekotto went on the social media site to congratulate Anelka for using the gesture.

Assou-Ekotto said: "I have always said that when I tweeted Nicolas I was congratulating him on an anti-establishment gesture and not an anti-Semitic gesture.

"I am pleased that the panel has found this to be true and I want to assure Spurs fans that I would never knowingly behave in a racist or anti-Semitic manner."

Meanwhile, UEFA have launched an investigation over an anti-Semitic banner which was displayed by Partizan Belgrade fans during their Europa League match against Spurs on Thursday.

Officials from Tottenham made UEFA aware of the banner, and head coach Mauricio Pochettino described it as "very disrespectful and unacceptable" following the 0-0 draw.
